

Bullion Canyon Mining Area

Bullion Canyon was once home to widespread mining activity. This history has left behind tailings and waste piles that contain concentrations of heavy metals that you should be aware of.

This project is a collaborative effort between the City of Marysvale, Crown Mines and EPA to cover soils in high use areas so you can enjoy your time here. As you enjoy the history and recreation in the Canyon, here are a few things you can do if you encounter mine tailings and waste deposits:

Wash your hands
before eating

Take off shoes when entering tent or home

Keep your camping
gear clean
